STUDY 2 – Discussion about Acute Deterioration

Do you work in a nursing or residential home based in England that cares for older adults?

Do you provide direct care to residents? Are you willing to share your experiences of providing care for acutely unwell residents?

We want to learn about how acute deterioration is identified & managed in care homes from the perspectives of care home staff.

We are keen to learn from care home staff and ensure your voices are heard.

Can you spare some time to speak to our friendly research team? You can choose to have a face to face or online conversation at a time that suits you.

Interested? Please contact the lead researcher for further information: Sevim Hodge – ntxsyh@nottingham.ac.uk

All discussions are strictly confidential and anonymised to protect your privacy and identify.
